Harvard's influential President Charles W. Eliot said, "If you were to spend just 15 minutes a day reading the right books, a quantity that could fit on a five foot shelf, you could give yourself a proper liberal education." The publisher P. F. Collier and Son asked Eliot to assemble the right collection of works. The resulting 51-volume series was published in 1909 and called Dr. Eliot's Five Foot Shelf, which later came to be known as The Harvard Classics.

You can an old set off the internet for $150-500. Or look at or download copies at the Internet Archive and Project Gutenberg, which have links to all of the text in The Harvard Classics. In the links below, you have the actual books, the annotated Harvard Classics texts edited by Eliot himself.

There are four types of links for each set. The PDF is a document file of each book, scanned in and searchable with Adobe Reader – a very robust document. You can download a pdf to just about any device. The Kindle and e-publish versions work on a lot of readers too. The Read Online version takes you to a web site in your browser, tablet, or smart phone, and you can "flip" through pages without downloading. The "4.9M," etc., means MBs of size of the PDF only.
